Report.

S. P. 66/

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY
ON REDISTRIBUTION

MR. SPEAKER:

I beg to present the following report of the Special Committee on Redistribution appointed pursuant to a Resolution of this Assembly.

The Committee was appointed March 31st, 1960, by the following Resolution:

Resolved that a Committee of this Assembly consisting of the following seven Members, namely:

Honourable Mr. Colborne, Chairman

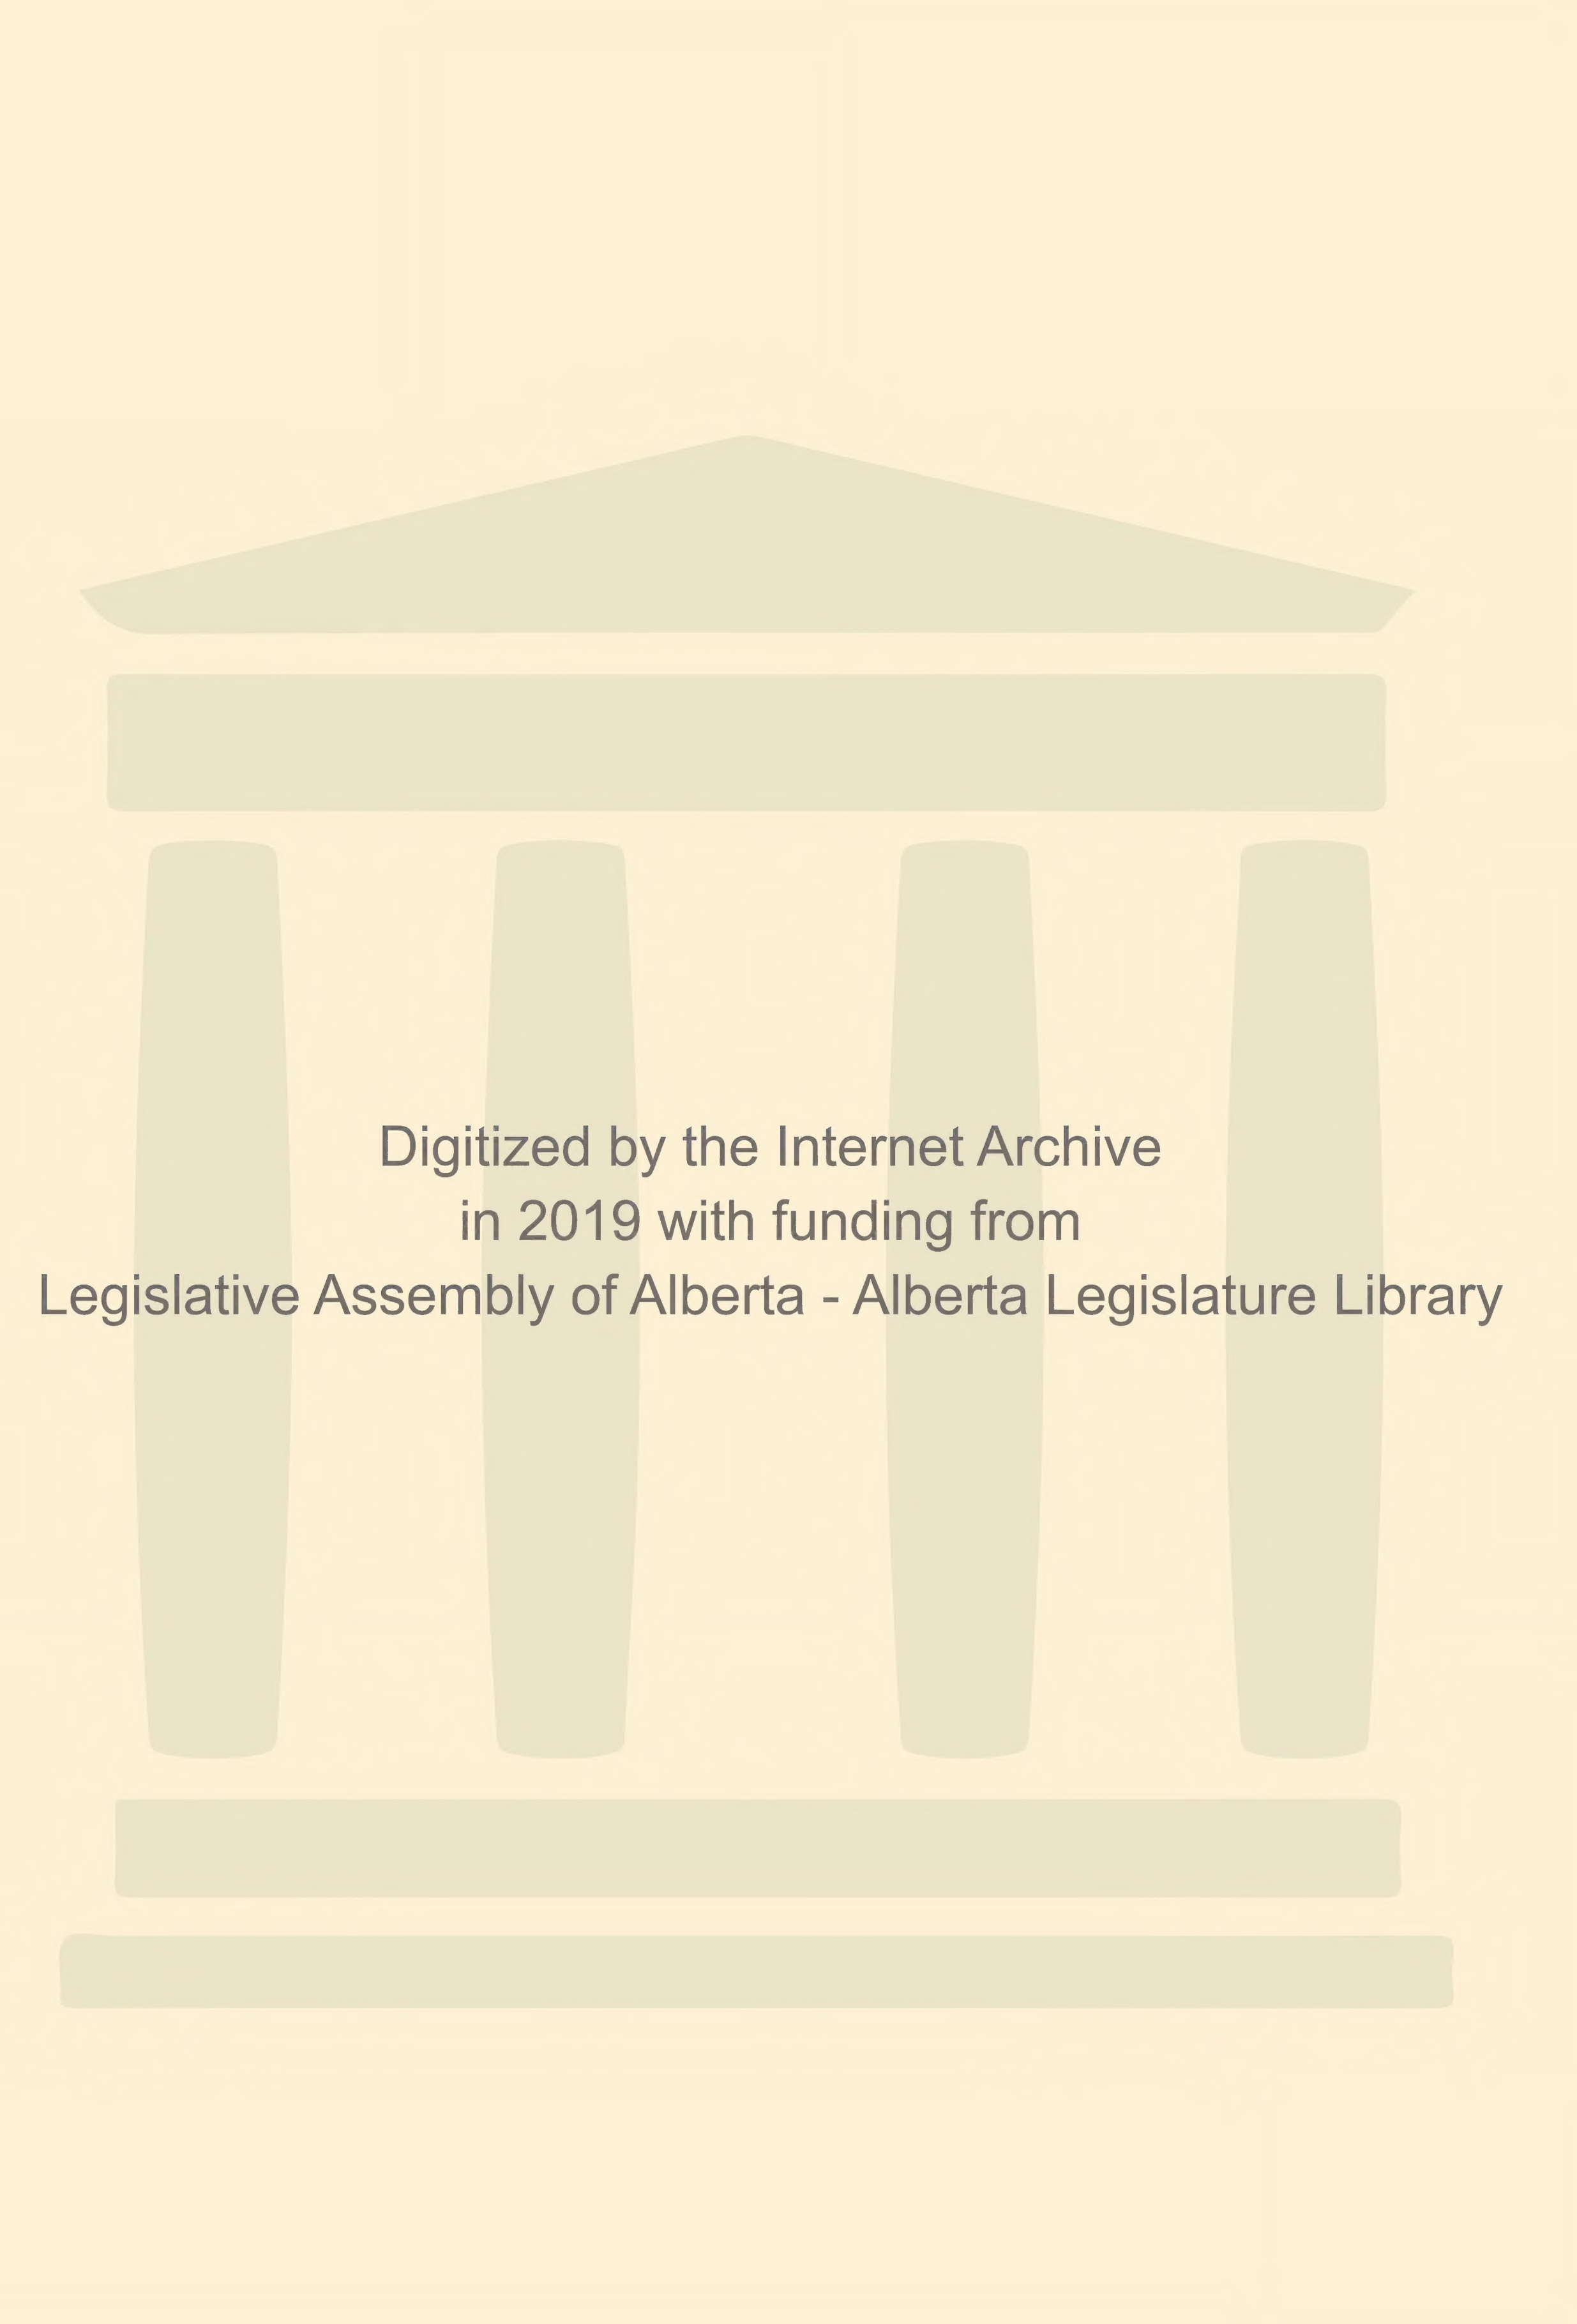

Messieurs Strom
Ure
Gerhart
McLaughlin
Watkins
Maccagno

be appointed for the purpose of considering Schedule "1" of The Legislative Assembly Act and to recommend to this Assembly any necessary changes that may be deemed advisable to the Electoral Divisions of this Province, having in mind physical and geographical considerations, population and community of interest; and

Further that such Committee do invite and consider recommendations from the Public during the intermission until the next regular Session of this Legislature, at which time it shall report its findings to this Assembly.

In keeping with instructions from the Assembly as outlined in the above Resolution announcements were inserted in newspapers of the Province inviting the Public to make representations to the Committee and all recommendations received were considered by the Committee.

In addition to several private meetings the Committee held public meetings at Edmonton to hear oral representations in support of certain briefs.

As a result of the representations received and the resulting deliberations, the Committee recommends as follows:

(a) That a new Constituency be created in each of the Cities of Edmonton and Calgary.

(b) That four Constituencies be eliminated in the rural areas in the Central and Southern part of the Province.

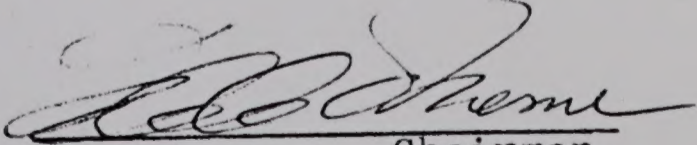

(c) That the present Constituencies of Olds and Didsbury be combined and re-divided in such a way that with certain additions they may comprise two Constituencies, one including the East portion and the other the West portion of the present area.

(d) Certain minor boundary adjustments outlined in the attached descriptions and maps.

The effect of the Committee's recommendations will be to reduce the Membership of the Assembly from 65 to 63 seats.

The Committee submits herewith detailed descriptions of the proposed Constituencies together with maps setting out the proposed new boundaries.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

F.C. COLBORNE Chairman.

As a result of the representations received and the Committee's deliberations, the Committee recommends as follows:

- (a) That a new constituency be created in each of the Cities of Edmonton and Calgary.
- (b) That four constituencies be eliminated in the rural areas in the Central and Southern part of the Province.
- (c) That the present Constituency of Olds and Brudenry be combined and re-divided in such a way that with certain additions they may comprise two constituencies, one including the East portion and the other the West portion of the present area.

- (d) Certain minor boundary adjustments outlined in the attached descriptions and map.

The effect of the Committee's recommendations will be to reduce the number of the Assembly from 25 to 13 seats.

The Committee submits herewith detailed descriptions of the proposed constituencies together with maps setting out the proposed new boundaries.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Electoral Division of Alexandra, the boundary whereof is as follows: Commencing at the north-east corner of section 36, township 52, range 11, west of the 4th meridian; thence northerly along the east boundary of range 11, west of the 4th meridian to the left bank of the North Saskatchewan River; thence downstream along the said left bank to the east boundary of the Province; thence southerly along the said east boundary to the left bank of the Battle River; thence upstream along the said left bank to the east boundary of range 6, west of the 4th meridian; thence northerly along the said east boundary to the north boundary of township 52; thence westerly along the said north boundary to the point of commencement.

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the success of any business or organization. The author argues that without reliable data, decision-making becomes guesswork, which can lead to significant financial losses and operational inefficiencies. The text further elaborates on the various methods used to collect and analyze data, highlighting the need for consistency and transparency in the reporting process. The author concludes this section by stating that while the initial setup of a record-keeping system may be time-consuming, the long-term benefits far outweigh the costs.

In the second part of the paper, the author explores the challenges associated with data management in a rapidly changing environment. The text discusses how technological advancements, while offering numerous opportunities for growth and innovation, also present new risks and complexities. The author notes that the volume and variety of data being generated have increased exponentially, making it difficult to store, process, and analyze effectively. Additionally, the security of data has become a paramount concern, as breaches can result in the loss of sensitive information and damage to a company's reputation. The author suggests that organizations must adopt a proactive approach to data management, implementing robust security measures and staying up-to-date with the latest technologies to mitigate these risks.

The third part of the paper focuses on the role of data in strategic planning and decision-making. The author argues that data-driven insights are crucial for identifying market trends, understanding customer behavior, and optimizing business operations. The text provides several examples of how companies have successfully used data to inform their strategies, leading to increased profitability and competitive advantage. The author also discusses the importance of data literacy, suggesting that all employees should be equipped with the skills necessary to interpret and use data effectively. The author concludes this section by emphasizing that data is not just a tool, but a fundamental asset that can shape the future of any organization.

In the final part of the paper, the author discusses the future of data management and the potential for further innovation. The text explores emerging technologies such as artificial intelligence, machine learning, and blockchain, which have the potential to revolutionize the way data is handled. The author notes that while these technologies offer exciting possibilities, they also require careful consideration and implementation. The author suggests that organizations should invest in research and development to stay at the forefront of these technological advancements. The author concludes the paper by stating that the future of data management is bright, but it requires a commitment to continuous learning and innovation to fully realize its potential.

Electoral Division of Athabasca, the boundary whereof is as follows: Commencing at the north-east corner of township 85, range 21, west of the 4th meridian; thence easterly along the north boundary of township 85 to the east boundary of range 16, west of the 4th meridian; thence southerly along the said east boundary to the north boundary of township 73; thence westerly along the said north boundary to the east boundary of range 18, west of the 4th meridian, thence southerly along the said east boundary to the north boundary of township 69; thence westerly along the said north boundary to the left bank of the Athabasca River; thence upstream along the said left bank to the east boundary of range 21, west of the 4th meridian; thence southerly along the said east boundary to the north boundary of township 65; thence easterly along the said north boundary to the east boundary of range 19, west of the 4th meridian; thence southerly along the said east boundary to the north boundary of township 63; thence easterly along the said north boundary to the east boundary of range 18, west of the 4th meridian; thence southerly along the said east boundary to the north boundary of township 60; thence westerly along the said north boundary to the east boundary of range 23, west of the 4th meridian; thence southerly along the said east boundary to the north boundary of township 59; thence westerly along the said north boundary to the east boundary of range 24, west of the 4th meridian; thence southerly along the said east boundary to the north-east corner of section 12, township 59, range 24, west of the 4th meridian; thence westerly along the north boundaries of sections 7 to 12 in township 59, ranges 24 and 25, west of the 4th meridian, to the east boundary of range 26, west of the 4th meridian; thence northerly along the said east boundary to the left bank of the Athabasca River; thence downstream along the said left bank to the east boundary of range 25, west of the 4th meridian; thence northerly along the said east boundary to the north boundary of township 76; thence easterly along the said north boundary to the east boundary of range 21, west of the 4th meridian; thence northerly along the said east boundary to the point of commencement.

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the study and the objectives of the research. It then proceeds to a literature review, where the author examines previous studies in the field. The methodology section follows, detailing the research design and data collection methods. The results section presents the findings of the study, and the conclusion summarizes the main points and offers suggestions for future research.

The study was conducted in a laboratory setting, where the participants were exposed to various stimuli. The data was collected using a series of questionnaires and interviews. The results show that there is a significant correlation between the variables studied. The conclusion is that the study has provided valuable insights into the topic, and it is hoped that it will contribute to the existing body of knowledge.

Electoral Division of Calgary Bowness; the boundary whereof is as follows: Commencing at the north-east corner of section 8, township 25, range 1, west of the 5th meridian; thence southerly along the east boundary of sections 8 and 5, township 25, range 1, west of the 5th meridian and along the east boundary of section 32, township 24, range 1, west of the 5th meridian to its intersection with the westerly production of the centre line of Holland Street; thence easterly along the said production to the centre line of 14th street north west; thence southerly along the said centre line to the centre line of 16th avenue north west; thence westerly along the said centre line to the centre line of 24th street north west; thence southerly along the said centre line and its southerly production to the right bank of the Bow River; thence upstream along the said right bank to its intersection with the centre line of the Trans-Canada Highway; thence in a general north-westerly and westerly direction along the said centre line to the east boundary of range 3, west of the 5th meridian; thence northerly along the said east boundary to the north-east corner of section 12, township 25, range 3, west of the 5th meridian; thence easterly along the north boundary of sections 7 to 12 in township 25, range 2, west of the 5th meridian and along the north boundary of sections 7 and 8 in township 25, range 1, west of the 5th meridian to the point of commencement.

The following table shows the results of the experiment. The first column is the time in seconds, the second column is the distance in meters, and the third column is the velocity in m/s. The data is as follows:

Time (s)	Distance (m)	Velocity (m/s)
0.0	0.0	0.0
0.5	0.5	1.0
1.0	1.0	2.0
1.5	1.5	3.0
2.0	2.0	4.0
2.5	2.5	5.0
3.0	3.0	6.0
3.5	3.5	7.0
4.0	4.0	8.0
4.5	4.5	9.0
5.0	5.0	10.0

The data shows that the velocity increases linearly with time, indicating constant acceleration. The distance increases quadratically with time, which is consistent with the kinematic equation $s = ut + \frac{1}{2}at^2$, where s is the distance, u is the initial velocity, t is the time, and a is the acceleration.

Electoral Division of Calgary Centre, the boundary whereof is as follows: Commencing at the intersection of the centre line of 17th avenue south west with the centre line of 37th street south west; thence northerly along the centre line of 37th street south west and its northerly production to the right bank of the Bow River; thence downstream along the said right bank to the right bank of the Elbow River; thence upstream along the said right bank to its intersection with the easterly production of the centre line of 17th avenue south east; thence westerly along the said easterly production and along the centre line of 17th avenue south east and along the centre line of 17th avenue south west to the point of commencement.

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the study. It highlights the need for a comprehensive understanding of the subject matter. The second part of the paper presents the methodology used in the study. It describes the data collection process and the analysis techniques. The third part of the paper discusses the results of the study. It presents the findings and discusses their implications. The fourth part of the paper concludes the study. It summarizes the main findings and provides recommendations for future research.

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the study and the objectives of the research. It also provides a brief overview of the methodology used in the study. The second part of the paper presents the results of the study and discusses the implications of the findings. The third part of the paper concludes the study and provides some suggestions for future research.

The study was conducted in a laboratory setting and involved a group of participants who were asked to perform a series of tasks. The tasks were designed to measure the participants' ability to perform a specific task under different conditions. The results of the study showed that the participants were able to perform the task under all conditions, but there were some differences in the time taken to complete the task. The implications of the findings are that the task can be performed under a range of conditions, but the time taken to complete the task may vary depending on the conditions.

The study was limited by the fact that it was conducted in a laboratory setting and involved a small group of participants. Future research should be conducted in a more naturalistic setting and with a larger group of participants to confirm the findings of this study.

The following table shows the results of the experiment. The first column is the time in seconds, the second column is the distance in meters, and the third column is the velocity in m/s.

Time (s)	Distance (m)	Velocity (m/s)
0.0	0.0	0.0
0.5	0.5	1.0
1.0	1.0	2.0
1.5	1.5	3.0
2.0	2.0	4.0
2.5	2.5	5.0
3.0	3.0	6.0
3.5	3.5	7.0
4.0	4.0	8.0
4.5	4.5	9.0
5.0	5.0	10.0

The data shows that the velocity increases linearly with time, indicating constant acceleration. The distance increases quadratically with time, which is consistent with the equations of motion for constant acceleration.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the success of any business or organization. The text outlines various methods for collecting and organizing data, including the use of ledgers, journals, and spreadsheets. It also highlights the need for regular audits and reconciliations to ensure the integrity of the financial information.

The second part of the document focuses on the analysis and interpretation of the collected data. It describes how to identify trends, patterns, and anomalies in the financial records. The text provides guidance on how to use this information to make informed decisions and to develop strategies for improving the organization's performance. It also discusses the importance of communicating the results of the analysis to the relevant stakeholders in a clear and concise manner.

The third part of the document addresses the legal and ethical aspects of financial record-keeping. It outlines the requirements for maintaining accurate records under various laws and regulations, such as the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). It also discusses the importance of maintaining the confidentiality and security of the financial data, and the potential consequences of failing to do so.

The final part of the document provides a summary of the key points discussed throughout the document. It reiterates the importance of accurate record-keeping and the need for regular audits and reconciliations. It also emphasizes the importance of using the collected data to make informed decisions and to develop strategies for improving the organization's performance. The document concludes by stating that proper financial record-keeping is a fundamental requirement for the success of any business or organization.

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry, no matter how small, should be recorded to ensure the integrity of the financial data. This includes not only sales and purchases but also expenses and income. The document further states that regular audits are necessary to verify the accuracy of these records and to identify any discrepancies. It also mentions that proper record-keeping is essential for tax purposes and for providing a clear picture of the company's financial health to stakeholders.

The second part of the document focuses on the role of management in overseeing the financial operations. It highlights that management should establish clear policies and procedures for financial reporting and ensure that all employees are trained to follow these guidelines. The document also discusses the importance of budgeting and how management should monitor the company's performance against the budget. It notes that effective financial management is crucial for the long-term success of the organization and for making informed decisions about future investments and growth.

The third part of the document addresses the issue of financial transparency and accountability. It argues that companies should be open about their financial performance and provide regular updates to investors and other interested parties. This transparency helps to build trust and confidence in the company's management and its financial statements. The document also mentions that companies should implement strong internal controls to prevent fraud and ensure that all financial transactions are properly authorized and documented.

The final part of the document provides some practical advice for implementing these financial management principles. It suggests that companies should invest in reliable accounting software and hire qualified professionals to manage their financial affairs. It also recommends that management should conduct regular reviews of the financial system and make adjustments as needed to improve efficiency and accuracy. The document concludes by stating that a commitment to sound financial management is essential for any company that wants to thrive in a competitive market.
